ENTERING THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA UNDER THE NORTH AMERICAN FREE TRADE AGREEMENT (NAFTA)

You must be a citizen of either Canada or Mexico. You must prove admissibility under all existing United States immigration laws. You must establish that you qualify as a visitor for business, a treaty trader or investor, an intracompany transferee, or a professional.

DEFINITIONS:

- 1. Visitor for business: A person engaged in international business activities related to research and design, growth, manufacture and production, marketing, sales, distribution, after-sales service, and other general services reflecting the activities in a complete business cycle, and receiving no remuneration from a United States source.
- 2. Treaty Trader: A person coming to carry on substantial trade involving the flow of goods or services principally between the United States and Canada or between the United States and Mexico. Over 50% of the international trade must be conducted between the United States and the treaty country. The Treaty Trader must be a citizen of Canada or Mexico. An employee of a trader may also qualify as a treaty trader if he or she is entering the United States in an executive or supervisory capacity; or, if employed in a lesser capacity, the employee must have skills which are essential to the efficient operation of the business. Issuance of a nonimmigrant visa is required prior to entry of both Canadians and Mexicans in this classification.
- 3. Treaty Investor: A citizen of either Canada or Mexico who is coming to the United States to develop and direct a bona fide enterprise in which they have made a substantial investment of capital and, thereby, own at least 50% or maintain a controlling interest. The employee of a treaty investor who will be employed in an executive or supervisory capacity, or who has skills which are essential to the operation of the business, may also be classified as a treaty investor. Issuance of a nonimmigrant visa is required prior to entry of both Canadians and Mexicans in this classification.
- 4. Intracompany transferee: A person coming to a United States parent, branch, subsidiary or affiliate of a foreign company. The person must have been employed abroad by the foreign company for at least one year out of the preceding three in an executive, managerial, or specialized knowledge capacity. He or she must be coming to the United States for the purpose of employment in an executive, managerial, or specialized knowledge capacity. A petition must be filed in behalf of the intracompany transferee on Form I-129 by either the United States or the foreign employer.
- 5. Professional: An alien who is a citizen of Canada or Mexico who seeks to enter the United States under and pursuant to the provisions of Section D of Annex 1603 of the North American Free Trade Agreement to engage in business activities at a professional level.
- 6. Dependents: The spouse and children of the E - Treaty Trader or Treaty Investor are granted E status just like the principal but are not authorized employment. The spouse and children of an Intracompany Transferee are classified L-2 and may not work. The spouse and children of a professional alien are classified TD for Trade Dependent and are not authorized to accept employment.

DOCUMENTATION:

- 1. A Canadian citizen seeking status as a visitor for business, an intracompany transferee, or a professional, may apply for admission at a Port of Entry without first obtaining a nonimmigrant visa.

2. A Mexican citizen seeking status as a visitor for business, an intracompany transferee, or a professional, may apply for admission at a Port of Entry after obtaining a nonimmigrant visa or Border Crossing Card when seeking status as a visitor for business, and the requisite nonimmigrant visa according classification as an intracompany transferee or a professional.

3. Both a Canadian and a Mexican citizen must proceed to a United States Consulate and have the requisite nonimmigrant visa inserted in their passport or other travel document when seeking status as a treaty trader or investor. This applies even if the Canadian citizen obtained a change of status to that of a treaty trader or investor. This is one of the few times when a Canadian citizen would need to present a visa at the time of application for admission.

PROCEDURES FOR PROFESSIONAL STATUS

1. A Canadian citizen seeking professional status would present evidence of citizenship, a letter of employment offering employment in professional status, evidence that he or she is in possession of said status, and appropriate evidence of compliance with state licensure requirements.

2. A Mexican citizen seeking professional status would present a nonimmigrant visa issued by a United States Consulate. This visa would be issued after a petition submitted by a would-be employer had first been approved.

3. Both the Canadian and the Mexican citizen may be admitted for a maximum initial period of one year in a professional status.

4. The current listing of professional occupations in Appendix 1603.D.1 is as follows:
