Huntington, West Virginia

To kick off my time as travel writer for PurplePJs, I first want to take a minute and have the unique pleasure of living in Huntington,

West Virginia.
Huntington is the second largest city in West Virginia and is home to Marshall University, the university behind the hit film We Are Marshall. But this city is more than just a great university, it is a wonderful community of people and I feel like it is on the verge of a true renaissance. Huntington was once one of the historic industrial cities along the Ohio River and today, just like cities such as Pittsburgh, it is finding its way in a different type of economy. Huntington is centrally located for easy access to cities in the north and south as well as cities in the mid-west and on the east coast. Indeed it allows one to get a taste of a simpler life without forgoing all of the amenities one might find in a Janet is a restless spirit on an endless night, but currently a policy fellow with the Transportation Research Board of the National Academy of Sciences. Aside from that she is a graduate student at Marshall University (We are... MARSHALL!) and alumnae of Chatham University. She is a native of Vancouver, BC but has called California, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and her Chevy home. In her spare time you'll probably find her exploring the landscape in her Chevy and geocaching. She has two cats and Chris, her wonderful boyfriend.
